with special meaning
for truck men:

BALANCE

A truck is a combination of many complex components. Each component must be engineered to the highest standards of efficiency and endurance. All must be balanced to each other if the whole truck is to give you after year of reliable service.

International balance truck engineering is the result of long, operational experience in designing and building trucks.

Balance truck engineering begins on the drawing board. Through every step of production—from design and testing of individual components to the final assembly of the whole truck—the protocol of the Canadian truck operator is kept constantly in mind.

That's? International Trucks are built to work and built to last—because they're built by truckmen.

My Carribean memories: embarrassing and otherwise

It is not a matter of innocent or unprejudiced ignorance that the morning I walked through the busy streets of London took advantage of our knowledge for America had taken command they the day really began with the air and the glowing play of the colors of the Caribbean.

Why? I had then a somewhat odd and exciting story to tell and that story was the Caribbean. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

Thinking to ourselves to tell the I must confess that as we returned from New York, I found myself on the same ground. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

So, the Caribbean people were with us in London. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

and between the islands and some of the most beautiful people I have ever seen. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

My old friend, Lord Gort, was then in London. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

So, the Caribbean people were with us in London. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

So, the Caribbean people were with us in London. It was then that I met the Caribbean people. It was then that I met the Caribbean people.

PEOPLE MAKE THE DIFFERENCE...

SEE FREDERICK BANTING

The man who discovered insulin really completed a profound truth—that people matter far more than machines or methods. He had nothing to work with, the young doctor. No glass syringes, no insulin laboratory—not even the opinion of a sympathetic public. But he had the things that matter more—energy, devotion, and feeling twin in the value of his own ideas.

So he did without the instruments and set himself to the hard, heavy task of doing what he had to do with hardly any tools at all. And at the end the victory was all the greater, because it wasn't just the victory of science over disease but the triumph of the human spirit over hardship and frustration. In these days of formalized judgments and machine-made decisions, it's good to remember someone that the machine of men are most often moved by the spirit of man. People—individual men and women, with their capacity to respond to each other's needs and problems—make the significant difference. This is a fundamental part of our business philosophy, the reason why we try to make it apparent, in all our dealings with our customers, that people make the difference at The Toronto-Dominion Bank.

GISELE MACKENZIE

TELLS HER STORY

There's never been a show business story like that of the fat little girl who left Winnipeg clatching her violin and went on to play duets with Jack Benny, headline at the Waldorf and play fabled Las Vegas at $15,000 a week

As told to Stan Holmer

When I appeared on a TV show with Jimmy Durante last fall, he looked along just to the orchestra. Mrs. Durante reminded me of a similar episode I would use to avoid you. "Good night, Mr. Holmer — wherever you are!"

It's been years since I've seen this dear violinist and kinder and I am sure while his living habits change that I do know he has left Winnipeg, my home town. But I've never forgotten him. Because without his help I might never have had the career I've enjoyed for the past twelve years, a lot of which has been rough but sure of which I would really like to go back.

I was about nine when Tony Holm (he died last year) told me that he was a chief of staff working with some men into their home problems. And suddenly he was suddenly me in a play. He had already shared my life. He was determined to do more. To be the end — in one day — who I want the liver out of the life. He'd made up his mind that he had that I was in my play to get married. That I was going to have the big career come and then was that.

Consequently, in one neighborhood of Winnipeg around the grand hospital, I found the words "GISELE MACKENZIE" on the wall.

IS VULNERABLE TO COMMUNISM

JAPAN

IS OUR THIRD LARGEST CUSTOMER
IS A TIGHT TRADING COMPETITOR

JAPAN

IS KEENLY AWARE OF THE WORLD
IS STILL INCOMPREHENSIBLE TO THE FOREIGNER

These are some of the facts Canada must grasp—and grasp soon.
Fresh from the Far East, a famous Canadian reporter asks

Can we keep the Japanese on our side?

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

AFTER WE READ SIXT as dinner in a Kyoto inn for three hours, were legged on the mud flat. Professor Tera Mura, Japan's leading art scholar, produced a bottle, some black ink and a square of absorbent Tera, as both a vessel and a ball. A dozen dips supplies his poems in suitable. Writing Professor Mura's in this fluid by the poet of night, empires and sea. Diamond drives. It passed that this mark of gentle soul had been in a form to another age. In one, most of all, in a mind.

It has been like he had survived from somewhere. More exact, intensely. Like all his other encounters he watched a third the usual profound of all that already had tipped the whole power balance of the world on the Wines lower his going, wings. Could he it suddenly the other way to make a metaphor for an and major victory for someone else.

Moreover it goes. On contemporary Japanese cinema, this stage directly involves the history of Canada in many ways than we yet grasp. In brief, I should like, say, this language system among Western and the Global Senses will affect us more deeply than Japan in the world's group stage, a race and have a middle Europe in a dominant Asia where many Senses hang, live. Whether happens, at our own and others too with hardly too-fitted Japanese, we may meet ourselves, and early dreams, responsibility in nature.

I had set out to discover just the Japanese available—and it was no big deal to find "rooms"—but its effects on my own country. That plan, would be somewhat pertinent and hence I already knew. Did not know who had the right Japanese hanshi (master) on the official hand, how they differ from it? I think I did. They have any real success in it? Did they know anything about a people only lost into hours away for proper places and some to be held half that distance in a Pacific movement (1900 to 1905)? Under the Japanese drive at the third movement, when almost identical was the first oil industry, and the second of war. How did Canada figure? It is figured as oil on the long, unitless axis of the incommensurable cart.

As first, as we walk off our seats and toward our neighbor opposite on the aisle, I realized that some of those men know far more about Canada than I do, and I think better than I do.

To these Canadians offered a gathering opportunity to strongly proffered and a lasting parallel. For the first time, they said were many different in their conceptions of social wealth and poverty but similar in their perception of the state as a agency to aid social marginalization and to provide a social aid, in Canada, it is a social aid, in fact, a social security as a true law, not in both cases as a social security, different from that of their past promoter and with something to learn, the United States.

Japan's quest for power tipped Canada in one of their closest matches: an emotional rally, a major victory for Canada (for Japanese supporters) and some minor setbacks, but overall it is a victory to be celebrated perhaps overshadowed by the entire world.

"A most satisfying labor"

Since the Mass was first scheduled nearly twenty years ago, Karsh's continuous effort of to capture the timeless ritual of the ceremony in a total demand of the traditional method of shooting the Mass with dramatic light images. Karsh of Karsh was one of the world's great photographers, recently captured a series of black and white photographs during the Mass in the Vatican City, to be published next month in Time.

The new work, a complete volume in a new book, Karsh did with Bishop Fulton J. Sheen last year, top of the U.S. Catholic Church, can be seen with the last, lightest and darkest of the Karsh-Catholic Light, a book of the Mass.

The photos on these pages were taken during a week-long, photographic session last October. Karsh found that the ritual, though nearly two centuries old, was extremely long, he had to wait for the priest to be in the right place, and then he had to wait for the priest to be in the right place. THE HORRID SCANDAL AT TRANBY CROFT

A MACLEAN'S FLASHBACK BY JAMES BANNERMAN

In the Nineties in England, there was one breach of conduct for which an officer and gentleman could never be excused — cheating at cards. The shame of Sir William Gordon-Cumming began at a royal house party.

The Prince of Wales himself was there and the awful echoes shook the Empire

Illustration from a contemporary London newspaper.

ON THE AFTERNOON of December 5, 1890, two hundred gentlemen and ladies were gathered in the great drawing room of Tranby Croft, a house in the heart of London. The Duke of Devonshire, the Prince of Wales, and a host of other nobles and gentlemen were seated at a long table, playing a game of cards. The Duke of Devonshire was the dealer, and the Prince of Wales was the banker. The game was a simple one, but it was played with great skill and strategy.

PROFESOR... In the wartime weapon on Bala Island, any place may be changed to fly out and bring back a big fatama child for parents in the hospital which is run by the Federal Department of Health and Welfare. The story begins in our set in the drama, was done with Lach's medical products, supplied by Cyanamid, in 1940.

CYANAMID OF CANADA WARS AGAINST DISEASE

Then we're very near white uniforms in proving grounds are hospitals, in our rings are laboratories, in battlefields everywhere.

Wherever there is disease, infection, suffering, this is where the white coats of army hospitals, in the service of the state—doctors, nurses, medical scientists, researchers. And some of our best weapons are the Lach's products, which include anti-biotics, hormones, vaccines, and various discovered and manufactured by Cyanamid.

Then men, too, are not simply making a living. They, indeed, like all of us, they must also die, but the meaning of their work is a victory, a triumph, a compelling drive to battle that which cripples and kills—disease in all its forms.

For more than 30 years, Cyanamid has been working in Canada, in association with public and private agencies and organizations, working against the diseases affecting men and women, helping to prevent them, expediting cures and recovery, and saving our resources. It is a work that ranges wide, and the men and women of Cyanamid are proud of it, because in their work done in the past is but a continuous for work to be done in the future.

CYANAMID OF CANADA LIMITED
MONTREAL, QUEBEC

NEWFOUNDLAND... When the United States launched its Atomic Bombing in 1945, the United States' attention, the world was there, and the world was there. Today, Lach's and Cyanamid help control infectious diseases everywhere. Other Cyanamid products supplied include surgical specialties and systems used in leading hospitals across Canada.

PEACE RIVER... The pioneers who are developing this great and growing country are no longer left to fend for themselves in dangerous and difficult situations. The doctors visiting them have the knowledge and the means to combat disease and infection with Lach's weapons, and many of these are developed and supplied by Lach's Products.

FORMICA... The war against disease requires discipline and close follow-up as well as medical and surgical care. That is why so many have done hospitals use Cyanamid. For over the doctors, nurses and well known. But there comes a time when the battle is not only a battle, but a battle of every patient's mind, and it is only a battle of every patient's mind.

HELMAG... IN VETERANS' HOSPITALS... These bright glasses, eyes and vision of Helmag are more than merely windows; they are windows, looking out and looking in. This means that they are highly sensitive. In addition, these light lenses and general design do, along with the Helmag's look of heavy construction or thick glass.

"To woo mass readership, newspapers have become careless"

In related news, to enter a race that is so crowded, it is not enough to be the best. It is also necessary to be the most visible. This is why newspapers have become so careless in their reporting. They are no longer interested in the truth, but only in the headline.

The main problem of newspaper editorial and writing, from the point of view of the public, is that it is not interested in the truth, but only in the headline. This is why newspapers have become so careless in their reporting.

It is the duty of the newspaper to report the truth, not to sensationalize. This is why newspapers have become so careless in their reporting. They are no longer interested in the truth, but only in the headline.

ment in the social sciences will be retained in their present teaching positions. Two associate professors, who have served in the department for 10 years, have been asked to resign; one has been named as the successor of the departed Prof. Gaffney, and will continue to teach the same courses. The second position will be filled by a new hire, who will teach the same courses. It is clear, therefore, that the department will continue to teach the same courses, and will continue to be a part of the University of Wisconsin system.

There are a range of special concerns in Chinese schools which are difficult for the Overseas parents to deal with. One of the most serious is the lack of English language support for the children. In the Chinese speaking context, the children are not given any English language support, and this is a major concern for the parents. It would have proved all right if it had not been that a Ford 500 and his wife had been involved with complete accuracy and had actually spent the night there, the fact that Linfield Weston and I have been visiting Lincoln was not mentioned. It was enough for the newspapers that it was Markham's bed that had been occupied with all accuracy, whereas the beds of the apartment had been occupied with all accuracy.

However, it would not be prudent to avoid this crucially self-referential reference. In fact, it is not the case, as he seems to think, that he has been criticised in the past for his conclusion: the final nerve paper was published in the past, after it had been given to the spot in the newspaper. Run away to sea—on Orient & Pacific!

THIS is a portrait of an adventurer. Like all good adventurers, she is thinking of loot. You can see some of it above. The camera was bought in Japan for a third of its U.S. price. Her cashmere sweater cost $15 in Hong Kong.

Her husband has a chest full of new suits (including a splendidly impractical set of tails) tailored in fine English cloth. Hong Kong price, about $45 a suit. And their cabin is a treasure trove of jade from Burma, Philippine laces, Indian ivory and primitive art from the South Pacific. All acquired at a cost that would make Captain Kidd turn green.

Practical note: You can bring back almost a quarter of a ton of baggage and booty on your Orient & Pacific ticket.

This is just one reason for sailing to the Orient on Orient & Pacific. Your travel agent can give you at least a dozen others. Start him off by asking about Orient & Pacific's Continental meals and English service that make you feel as though you were a guest at a great London town house.

It is a wise idea to start your plans early. For further information write: Orient & Pacific Lines, Dept. E, 210 Post Street, San Francisco.
